SPRINGDALE.

Items of Interest From That Locality Gathered By Our Staff Correspondent.

Mrs. Elizabeth Doyle of Maysville is visiting relatives here.

Miss Belle Lunsford of Tollesboro spent a few days with friends here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Toile of Richmond were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Degman Friday.

Scott Fletcher is replenishing the empty pockets of the farmers by paying a fair price for their wool.

Mrs. P. F. Martin and Miss Edie Millon of Flemingburg are pleasant guests at Maplewood this week.

Memorial Services at Bethany grow more interesting with each observance. Notwithstanding the intense heat the large crowd present last Thursday sat with unabated interest through the services. The program as carried out consisted of appropriate recitations from Misses Ida Pearis, Clara Degman, Kette Banister, Ruth Gruesz, Mary Henderson, Lulu Tully, Cora Blaine Cray and Masters Charlie Wilson and Johnny Trumbo, interspersed with the National airs. A very interesting address by Thomas A. Davis, abounding with patriotism, was especially enjoyed. After the decoration of graves, brief speeches were made by several present, with reminiscences and stories of war times, which were of more than usual interest to the young people.

Bob Ingersoll says there is no hell. Bob ought to be made to experience the pangs of anguish and jealousy that blight the lives of those managers who try to rival the Great Wallace Shows.

Shame on You, Will.

Flemingburg Gazette.

For some days we have been trying, without success, to invent some kind of a sign to place in the stairway leading to this office. One that is plainly visible on the darkest night is wanted, as some one is continually mistaking that place for a drinking resort. About forty-nine prescription bottles have been picked up from the steps within the past two weeks.

He Was "Piscopat."

New York Tribune.

An Episcopal clergyman, passing his vacation in Indiana, struck an old farmer, who declared that he was a "Piscopat." "To what parish do you belong?" asked the clergyman. "Don't know nawthin' 'bout enny parish," was the answer. "Well, then," continued the clergyman, "what diocese do you belong to?" "They ain't nawthin' like that 'round here," said the farmer. "Who confirmed you, then?" was the next question. "Nobody," answered the farmer. "Then how are you an Episcopalian?" asked the clergyman.

"Well," was the reply, "you see, it's this way: Last winter I went down to Arkansas visitin', and while I was there I went to church, and it was called 'Piscopat,' and I heard them say 'that they'd left undone the things what they'd oughter done and they had done some things what they oughten to hev done,' and I says to myself, says I, 'That's my fix, exac'ly,' and ever since I considered myself a 'Piscopalian.'"

The clergyman shook the old fellow's hand and laughingly said: "Now I understand, my friend, why the membership of our church is so large."

TOUCHING TRIBUTE.

How the Memory of a Good Samaritan is Preserved.

A touching incident has come to light at Richmond in connection with the battle at that place, which was fought thirty-three years ago.

The day after the engagement John F. Todd, a Union soldier, while retreating from the field, fell violently ill, and was taken in and cared for by Moses B. Willis, a farmer and Baptist Minister living near.

For two months the poor straggler hovered between life and death, but finally recovered.

With a grateful heart he left the home of his benefactor and went to work in the neighborhood as a farm hand.

Shortly afterward his old friend died and was buried in a rude inclosure, without a stone to mark the spot, and as the years went by the memory of the old man seemed destined to perish with his bones.

Three weeks ago, however, a shaft of white marble was placed above the grave, and the inscription tells the rest, which reads as follows:

"To the memory of Moses B. Willis, the good Samaritan who took a stranger in."

The shaft was erected by Todd, who is now a respected and prosperous farmer, and is related to some of the most prominent families in the county.

His check is as good as gold, while his modest deed would do honor to a Prince.

An Evangelist was fined in Lincoln county Thursday for using obscene language in the pulpit.

Lightning Hot Drops—

What a Funny Name!

Very True, but it Kills All Pain.

Sold Everywhere, Every Day—

Without Relief, There is No Pain!

Disease is cured not by magical incantations, but by medical science. Hence it is that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cures, and that it proves so eminently successful. It is a skillfully-prepared and strictly scientific blood-purifier and tonic, the only one admitted at the World's Fair.

The Monk!

By MATTHEW G. LEWIS, (MONK LEWIS.)

Mr. Lewis was a member of the British Parliament, and his book became so popular in England a hundred years ago that it gained for him the title of "Monk Lewis."

It is a fine piece of classic composition, and after being out of print for many years it has been republished from the original text.

It is far superior to "Maria Monk" and books of that character.

Did U?

Did you ever think that relatives or friends who have moved to distant places—gone West, perhaps, to grow up with the country—are always glad to hear from their "Old Kentucky Home?" And did it ever occur to you that a single copy of THE MAYSVILLE REPUBLICAN—the weekly edition of The Public Ledger—contains more home news than you could embrace in a hundred ordinary letters? And did it ever strike you that you can send the paper to your relatives and friends for a whole year at less cost than you can write a letter every week? Besides, don't you think a year's subscription to THE REPUBLICAN would be a present highly appreciated by those at a distance? Suppose you try it and hear what they have to say on the subject.
